Fallen Leaves

With its rich apple, pecan, and cedar scent, and its hints of cinnamon, green leaves, and chrysanthemum, Fallen Leaves lives comfortably in autumn. Its combination of sweet and spicy effortlessly captures the romance of a gloomy fall morning spent in the company of a good book, a steaming cup of coffee, and the one you love. Burn this candle when you're craving the warmth and charm that the season is known for.

Evergreen Forest

Bring the wonder of the outdoors in with Evergreen Forest. One smell of its familiar, woody fragrance is enough to take you to a singular time and place — a cabin high on a snow-covered mountain, seeking out the perfect pine to bring home from the Christmas tree farm, or bundled up as the first snow begins to fall outside. Turn on your favorite holiday record and bask in the memories that arise alongside this candle's fresh yet earthy notes of fir, pine, and cedar.

Pumpkin Spice

The pumpkin patch has opened, your boots are out of storage, and the beloved PSL is back — it must be fall! Light this candle at the first signs of the changing season for an instant hit of autumn allure. It's replete with delicious notes of pumpkin, cinnamon, and clove, and rounded out with hints of vanilla, cardamom, and nutmeg to make you fall even more in love with the popular scent and the transitional season that inspired it.

Gray Flannel

Gray Flannel is the comfort of your favorite oversized sweater on a crisp fall day. It's the coziest blanket on a cold winter evening, and the warm embrace of your loved one's hand holding yours as you stroll on a slow Sunday morning. Gray Flannel is soft and familiar – an intimate fragrance that reminds you of the ease of home. Light this candle and wrap yourself in comforting notes of cedarwood, vanilla, and smooth musk.

Bourbon Apple Cider

What better way to warm your insides than with a Bourbon Apple Cider. This candle gives off an equally lavish and light scent of apple, bourbon, and maple, while hints of cinnamon, orange, and vanilla only elevate its unique essence. The Bourbon Apple Cider candle is best to light in the fall as the leaves drop along with the temperatures.

Toasted Marshmallow

Skip the hassle of a campfire and the stickiness of s'mores and light a Toasted Marshmallow instead. Subtle but still deliciously sweet, Toasted Marshmallow is a scent to delight in any day of the year. This candle gives off a lovely and delicate fragrance comprised of sugared vanilla bean, golden amber, and just a light touch of smoke for its signature campfire toasted touch.
